EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

It has been a busy two months and the 1986-87 Chess season is now well under way. A busy schedule that saw 5 tournaments in six weeks gives way to a November that will have 3 tourneys, and a December that will see 2 more. So, with Christmas on the horizon, the next 2 months promise to be even busier. At this early point in the season, one fact seems to standing out as a hallmark. In spite of the continued low turnouts, the chess scene in North Dakota is starting to see some new faces. The participation of 6 players from Sidney, Montana, in the Queen City Open, was just the beginning. Fargo/Moorhead has seen some high school players show up at some tournaments to sharpen their skills for this year's scholastic. Mike Sailer continued his upset(ing) ways when he scored 1½ pts while playing the top four players at the Queen City Open, enroute to a net score of 2½ pts. Then he joined the list of players who recieved surprises at the hands of Stacy Mertz, at the KALAKA International. As you will note elsewhere, Mertz tied with Jerry Triggs to share first place at the KALAKA. All-in-all, it has been a very interesting 2 months.

I note that earlier I mentioned the continued low turnouts. One notable exception to that rule seems to be the Pawn Wars series, which is consistently drawing 12 or more players for a 1-day, 3-round event. As director of that event, I can hardly complain about what started as a 6 to 8 player tournament. It is hoped that the small successes that have been seen as of late can begin to gather interest. It is sad to hear of the cancellation of the Jamestown Open, yet I am reminded of a few words that Ron Schauer had for me last year, and I return them now in hopes that he be reminded of the wisdom he passed to me...I.E., A director's woes may sometimes seem discouraging and even insurmountable, yet in the long run, it is all part of the game and the only reasonable thing to do is to keep plugging away. The many contributions you have made, Ron, are a testimony to your class as both a person and a player. It is that testimony that makes you a cornerstone of ND Chess.

That is all for now. I hope this newsletter finds you all in good spirits. May the next 2 months be good, and may the Christmas Season bring you each the best of blessings. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!!!!!!

EDITOR'S CRESS NOTES

Opening with an important notice, the Jamestown Open has been cancelled. Due to a lack of community involvement was the reason. Anyone who was planning to go to that tourney, please take note. For those of you who were planning to go to the Jamestown tourney, not to worry. There is another tournament that same weekend, in Pierre, SD. It is the 3rd Proletarian Uprising. Please take note of the specifics in the Tournament Circuit section, of this newsletter.

While browsing through the Tournament Circuit, you might also note that Jerry Triggs has scheduled 2 one-day events for December. They are the Dakota Blizzards, 1 + 2.

Congratulations are in order for Stefan Popel and Nels Truelson who shared 1st place in the ND Open. Details elsewhere, as reported by Somnor Sorenson.

IGM Simen Agdestein of Norway gave a chess exhibition on Sept. 17, at Concordia College in Moorhead, MN. The Norwegian chess champion scored 12-1-2. The two draws were against Steve Turmo and Jeff Bergh. Congrats to both for their performances. And as well, special congratulations to a Chemistry teacher from Fargo's Oak Grove High School, Mr. Russ Herstrud, who scored the lone win against Agdestein!!! IGM Agdestein, age 19, was the recent winner of the Lloyd's Bank Masters International in London, and shared 1st at the World Junior Championship!!

That's all for now... Have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!!!

22nd NORTH DAKOTA OPEN

I sent Mr. Splichal some information about the F-M Open and IGM Simon Agdestein's simultaneous exhibition for his chess column in the Dickenson paper. Pres. Rosley, who directed the F-M Open and who sat to my right at the simul, was going to do the article and crosstable for NDCA News/Letter 7, but when he called me the morning after the ND Open, he indicated that he had not submitted any story or crosstable. He didn't say why he had not. He may have figured his job was done when he posted the last result of the F-M Open and collected his director's fee, or maybe he reasoned that since no one west of West Fargo entered the tournament, the readership of this publication was not interested in the results.

However solid such reasoning may be, there were a number of NDCA members from the immediate area who played-- not only played, but played well-- and who produced some memorable chess. If Turmo's games with Bergh and Pain, Amerslav's amazing draw with Heimarck, Heimarck's last-round win over Pain to produce a three-way tie for first, and Wipf's games with Starr and me are not there, the players have a right to feel slighted. I even felt good about my game with Popel. It was the first time over the twenty-one years that I have been playing him that I was able to deliver a checkmate. OK, I got lucky. I was ready to resign at least three times.

Whether Pres. Rosley will submit the article before he leaves North Dakota I haven't heard. (For that matter I don't know if he will be president once he leaves the Flickertail State. Even though I am a member of NDCA I am not allowed to vote, and I don't recall seeing the constitution. Maybe Dave will complete his term from Chicago, which is not in Region 6.) The best F-M Chess could do was to turn over the rating cross-table to Mr. Gagner. Dr. Wipf received it during the ND Open.

In connection with the ND Open I have tried soliciting games from some of the players. One entrant told me his play was unworthy, a second said he didn't want ND players to learn his fiercely-guarded chess secrets, and a third never saves his games; however, co-champion Popel has agreed to submit his game with Silas.

Nevertheless, the North Dakota Open was an exciting tournament.

Though smaller than last year's event, the quality of the games was strong and the outcome uncertain until Popel and Carlin concluded at 8:30 Sunday night.

The lead in the tournament changed. In the first round most of the top half won. The exceptions were that Bier drew with Gagner, and Popel with Heuer.

When Truelson and Carlin had entered the tournament they were both anticipating a fourth-round showdown. Carlin especially was looking forward to it because he was due to have white, and he had been very successful with whites in his last several meetings with Truelson.

That showdown never took place though. In the third round Carlin's flag fell before time control in his game with Turmo. It had been a most interesting game with Carlin attacking on the kingside and Turmo on the queenside, but by the end Turmo had the better of it.

So Turmo faced Truelson in the last round, and lost. After four rounds Truelson had the lead all by himself.

But in the meantime Popel, after his first-round draw, had quietly been winning from Bruce Meyer, Jeff Silas, and John J. Bier. In the fifth round he was pitted against Truelson.

Truelson dominated in the early part of the game, getting a two-pawn lead. However, Popel was able to work on the vulnerable P on h2, and at length got a passed Kk. The next time I saw the position Popel had queened, but relinquished his other material. Truelson had a rook and three pawns. I thought it would be a draw, but when it came down to R and QRP vs. Q and Truelson proposed a draw, Popel decided to play on for a few more moves. When I saw the position again Popel was checkmating Truelson.

The game deserves to be published. Players could learn a lot from studying Popel's masterful endgame play. The game runs over 80 moves though. Most players around here would not play it over. If they run over any games at all, the games are miniatures, preferably under 20 moves.

While I was working on the last-round pairings Truelson stepped into the office. He said it was like history repeating itself; he cited a game played ten years ago in Minneapolis in which he had blown away Popel in the opening but still lost the game. (I was watching the end of that earlier encounter, and I think it is closer to fifteen years, but no matter.

In the last round the new leader Popel had another grueling game, this time with Carlin. Around 8:30 they agreed to a draw.

Thus Truelson, who had beaten Roose in the finale, tied Popel for first place.

Other prize winners:

Class A-- 1st Stanfield; 2nd Silas, Roose & Herr

Class B-C-- Starr and Wipf

Class D-E-Unr-- 1st Scott; 2nd Verbitsky & Hanson

I am somewhat unhappy about two features of the tournament. First, the turnout was lower than it has been for many years (27 entries; only four class B players!) Second, two players scored 4½ and played very well, but won no prizes. If F-M Chess decides to sponsor a 23rd North Dakota Open, you can expect some significant changes.

AWN WARS UPDATE

Fourth battle has been fought on the board of 64 squares. The Knights of the square Board continue to give forth a herculean struggle, yet, with only one more attle to fight, a new Commander-in-Chief prepares to take control of the forces. Pawn Wars 86/4 took place on Saturday, October 11, 1986, at the usual battleground (the Bismarck Elk's Lodge). John Stanfield and Rev. John Leitel emerged with 3 points each and shared first place. Jerry Triggs was finally slowed in his inexorable climb to the Pawn Wars championship, but with 2 points he tied for third and was thus clinched first place in the final standings. The battle for 2nd and 3rd in the overall standings is still, however, a dogfight. Stanfield, Leitel, and Cliff Berger are all in the picture. But so is that upstart high school player, Mike Sailer. And not to forget LaMoyné Splichal. Rick Case, the defending champion, still has a slim chance, but will have a difficult time of it, at best. Which just underscores that the competition at Pawn Wars is indeed fierce, and no opponent can be taken lightly. The fifth and final battle in the series will be held on Saturday, November 22, 1986, at the Bismarck Elk's Lodge, on South Washington. Hope to see you there.

KALAKA Draws Record Turnout!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

With twelve players showing up to battle it out on an overcast yet nice autumn weekend, the KALAKA International set a tournament record. Of course last year's turnout was only eight players for a first time event, but who cares!!! A record is a record!!!! The entry of high school players from Dickinson (Zane Stearns and Kasey Myers), from Bismarck (Mike Sailer, Stacy Mertz, and Sean Olsen), from Rugby (Chris Lindseth), and Fargo (Steve Thomas, Jason Isaacson, Shawn Sweeten), among others, has helped the ND chess scene at several tourneys this year. At the KALAKA, it was no different, with four high school players participating. The fact that these younger players are honing their skills is born out by several performances this fall. The most notable of all occurred at the Kalaka, when Stacy Mertz brought in a 1300's rating and scored 3-0-2 for 4 pts. to share first place. Among the Coliaths that fell to this David were Lafayette Splichal and Richard Herr. Backed by draws against Dave Lindseth and Cliff Berger, Mertz accomplished one of the more remarkable underdog finishes in a long time. Chris Lindseth of Rugby showed that he was no slouch either. Chris scored 2 pts. including a surprise win over John Wetsch. This throws fear into the hearts of some players like myself as I was the victim of a crush at the hands of Wetsch, just 2 rounds later. Richard Herr scored 3 pts on the first day, including victories over the two top-rated players in the tourney. But then Richard had to settle for 2nd place over 1400 because of the combined efforts of the upstart Mertz, and the constant play of Jerry Triggs. Triggs' only blunder of the tournament was the loss to Mr. Wetsch. And thus he managed to come from behind to share first place. Congratulations to all who fought so hard, performed so well, and helped make the KALAKA a big success. If you think that last is overdoing it, take another look at the prize distribution. A total of $167.00 in cash awards were given away. Not bad for a 12-player turnout!!!

Jerry Triggs,
 Bismarck
